The screenshot shows the Ius Laboris website. The top navigation bar includes the logo, 'About Us', 'Our Lawyers', 'Insights', 'Learn & Connect', 'Tools', 'The Word', and a 'Global HR Law Guide' dropdown. A search icon, user profile icon, and a red square icon are also present. The main banner features a vibrant, abstract image of concentric circles in purple, blue, and green, with the text 'AI and the world of work' in white. A vertical label 'SERIES' is on the left. Below the banner, two paragraphs of text discuss the impact of AI on the workplace.

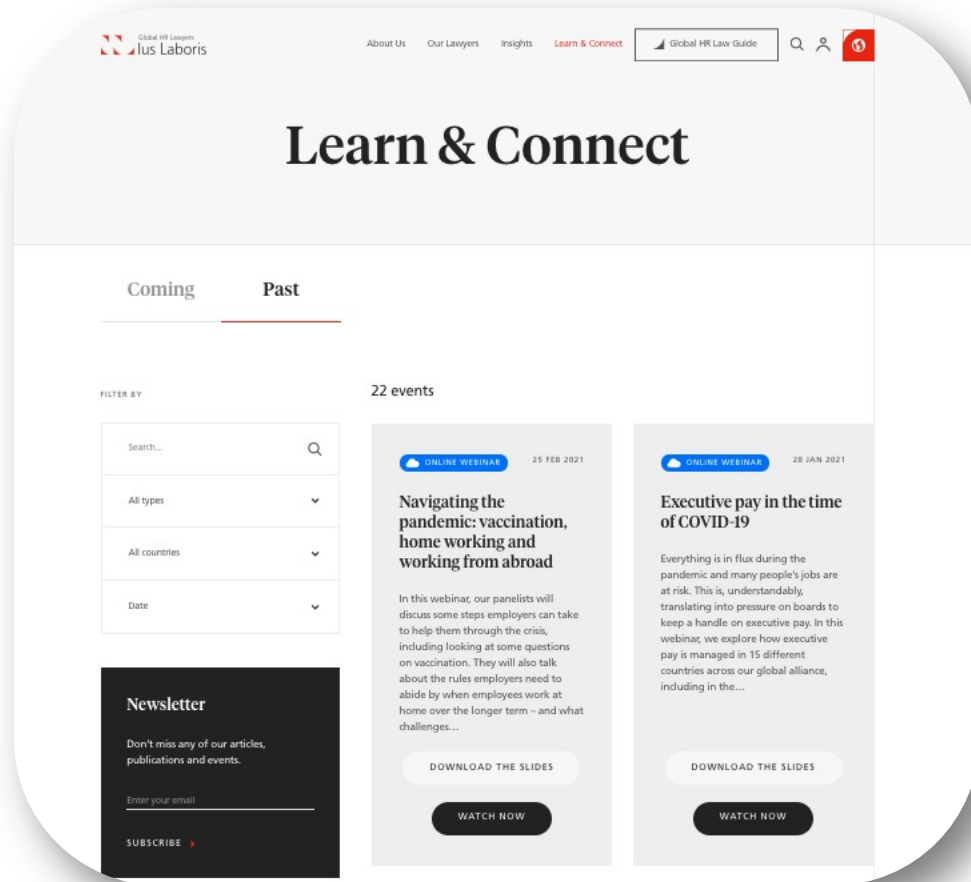

AI and the world of work

Artificial intelligence is set to transform the way we work, and plenty more besides. The public availability of tools like OpenAI's ChatGPT has seen the conversation spread from universities and Silicon Valley to boardrooms, kitchen tables and the halls of power. The opportunities of AI are immense, but concerns about its use and potential must now be addressed in the workplace.

We at Ius Laboris are uniquely placed to bring a global perspective, drawn from across the full breadth of HR and employment law practice, to these important developments. We have begun developing a range of material on this vitally important topic, looking ahead to the future by leveraging our own expertise, and by seeking dialogue with policymakers at the highest level.
